- Marco: Hi, it's me. How are you?
- Vanessa: I've been better, but I've had time to cool off. How are you?
- Marco: I've thought about the way I acted, and I'm so sorry. You ought to break up with me, V. I'm behaving foolishly.
- Vanessa: You're going to have to keep the promises that you make from now on. This is your last chance, Marco. You sound sincere.
- Marco: You mean, you've decided to come back? Oh, you've made me so happy! I'd better get your place cleaned up!
- Vanessa: What do you mean?
- Marco: Um, your kitchen and study are a little messy. I used to work out when I wanted to feel refreshed. Now, I cook when I get emotional.
- Vanessa: I would always do the opposite. I would eat when I got emotional. Now, I just pack and leave. It's not a good way to handle things.

Learning Points

The Present Perfect Tense vs. The Simple Past Tense

Let's compare the simple past and present perfect:

Simple Past

It refers to an action that occurred at a definite time in the past.

Examples:

I said things that I didn't mean yesterday.

He caught me at a bad time last Saturday.

These actions are finished when we have a definite time (yesterday, last Saturday).

You can use other time expressions + simple past

He did that ...	in 2000 last night last weekend on January 2nd three days ago
-----------------	---

Present Perfect

It refers to an action that happened at an indefinite time in the past.

Examples:

You guys have always made up and moved on.

I have said terrible things.

These actions can continue to the present.

We have talked about getting married ...	for years.
We have been a couple ...	since 2014.
I have waited for Vanessa ...	since she took off.
She has ...	never taken her suitcases.

Learning Points

Used to and Would to Talk About Past Habits

Would and used to have rather similar meanings. They are both used to describe something that happened regularly in the past but doesn't happen any longer. However, there is an important difference between used to and would.

Would is not used unless you know that the time frame is in the past, while used to does not require this.

Read the following example:

We used to visit India. (correct)

However, when would replaces used to, the same example becomes ungrammatical:

We would visit India. (not correct)

We would visit India every summer when we were children. (correct)

Examples:

- I would always do the opposite. I would eat when I got emotional.
- I used to work out when I wanted to feel refreshed.
